

Guide to emergency management supplies, services and resources

Sponsored by the Oklahoma Registrars Association (OKRA). Compiled by the OKRA Disaster Response Committee.

Oklahoma Museums Association
 Technical Bulletin #41
 Published 2003
 Updated 2010

Oklahoma museums face a variety of potential disasters from water, fire, wind and other forces of nature. Time is of the essence when artifacts, documents and photographs have been or could be damaged. It is essential that museums prepare in advance for potential disasters by having a response plan in place that includes a list of resources for supplies and services needed during an emergency. Below are suggestions for such resources. The Oklahoma Registrars Association, an OMA standing professional committee, recommends that museums keep several copies of this list and their disaster plan off-site at staff or volunteers' homes.
