

Guide to Emergency Management Supplies, Services and Resources

Sponsored by the Oklahoma Registrars Association (OKRA), a professional interest network of the Oklahoma Museums Association. Compiled by members of the Disaster Response Network.

Technical Bulletin #41
Published 2003
Updated 2010, 2016

Back issues of technical bulletins published by the Oklahoma Museums Association are available for free. For a complete list of technical bulletins and to download, visit the OMA website OKMuseums.org.

Oklahoma museums face a variety of potential disasters from water, fire, wind and other forces of nature. Time is of the essence when artifacts, documents and photographs have been or could be damaged. It is essential that museums prepare in advance for potential disasters by having a response plan in place that includes a list of resources for supplies and services needed during an emergency. Below are suggestions for such resources. The Oklahoma Registrars Association, an OMA professional interest network, recommends that museums keep several copies of this list and their disaster plan off-site at staff or volunteers' homes.
